

UCSB Center for Black Studies Research presents

Report from the Front Lines

Standing Rock Resistance and the North Dakota Oil Pipeline

In early September, members of the local Chumash community traveled to Standing Rock Reservation, the site of ongoing protests against the construction of the Dakota Access Pipeline. They will speak to what they witnessed at Standing Rock, provide an update on the current state of occupation, discuss the kinds of Indigenous resistance being organized, and share personal experiences and reflections.

Co-sponsor: Bonfire Collective

Monday, October 10, 2016
7:00 p.m.
MultiCultural Center Lounge,
UCSB

For more information, contact Diane Fujino, CBSR director, at fujino@asamst.ucsb.edu or Rosa Pinter at rpinter@cbs.ucsb.edu or 805-893-3914