RECEPTION TO FOLLOW

The first demographic racial transition occurred toward the end of the fifteenth century, and such transitions continue to be a major driver of social change today. After providing an overview of demographic racial transitions over the past five hundred years, Dr. Zuberi will focus on the place of Africa and the African Diaspora in what appears to be the final such transition among human populations.

Dr. Tukufu Zuberi
Professor of Race Relations, Sociology, and Africana Studies
University of Pennsylvania
Host of The History Detectives on PBS
