

THE CENTER FOR BLACK STUDIES RESEARCH PRESENTS

DOING CRITICAL RACE THEORY IN PERILOUS TIMES

DR. ANTAR TICHAVAKUNDA

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
UC SANTA BARBARA

JANUARY 27, 2025
11:00AM-12:30PM PST

ZOOM

Misinterpretations and caricatures of Critical Race Theory (CRT) abound in popular media and in higher education scholarship. Given the confusion surrounding what CRT is and is not, Dr. Tichavakunda offers this talk based upon a conceptual essay as an invitation to engage seriously with CRT's legal foundations in order to enrich CRT research.

Click for registration

This event will be recorded

Antar A. Tichavakunda received his Ph.D. in Urban Education Policy from the University of Southern California. Tichavakunda is both a product of DC Public Schools and taught high school english in DC Public schools. Tichavakunda has engaged in research on college readiness, Black students' experiences at predominantly White institutions, and more broadly the sociology of race and higher education.